OPTIONAL FRIDAY NIGHT ACTIVITIES

Dr. James Loewen is a sociologist and author of several provocative books on history and race relations in the United States. His best-selling book, "Lies My Teacher Told Me: Everything Your High School History Textbook Got Wrong," is the basis for his keynote address for the North Dakota Human Rights Coalition Conference at NDSU. Other books written by him include: "Lies Across America: What Our Historic Sites Get Wrong" and "Sunset Towns: A Hidden Dimension of American Racism." He will sign autographs after his talk, and copies of his books will be available for purchase. Sponsored by North Dakota Human Rights Coalition and NDSU.

Love as usual, but through the skewed sensibilities of the award winning comedic writer Christopher Durang. Tickets are available at the door or by calling Fine Arts Box Office at (701) 231-7969. This production also talks frankly about sex and uses not-so-polite language.

9:30 p.m.-1 a.m. MU LIVE, Memorial Union, Lower Level

Join the fun with free food, billiards, bowling and entertainment. Free to NDSU students and family members. Sponsored by Campus Attractions.
